Storm Preparation:

There are no areas in Florida immune to the forces of a hurricane or tropical storm. If a storm strike becomes imminent, it will be imperative that you are prepared and informed.

The Aftermath of a Storm:

Even if you have an excellent disaster plan in place, dealing with the aftermath of a severe weather event is never easy.

Avoid Scams When Donating to Disaster Relief:

Following disasters, consumers can avoid scams by donating to recovery and relief efforts through registered charities.

Tips on How to be Disinfectant Smart:

Disinfectants are designed to kill bacteria and/or viruses on surfaces. To keep Florida safe, disinfectants for sale must be registered by the US Environmental Protection Agency and by FDACS.

National Food Safety Education Month:

FDACS's Division of Food Safety celebrates National Food Safety Education Month during September to raise awareness of the steps we can take to prevent foodborne illness at home.

The Office of Financial Regulation Offers Valuable Consumer

Resources: OFR serves as the primary regulator of the state-chartered and licensed financial services businesses in Florida and is a valuable resource for Floridians.
